Add content here that will only be visible to your subscribers. Complex challenges in society demand that critical relations between art and concepts of the public are analyzed and re-cultivated. This Master of Fine Arts is dedicated to interrogating concepts of the public and the role of the artist in society. It is also research centric. This means that I will be taught how to develop and implement research practices of relevance to artistic practitioners. Additionally, I will learn how to analyse problems, challenges, and situations in society, critically review and fuse theories with art production, develop increasingly specific methods to nuance your investigations, develop specific strategies and forms of dissemination appropriate to my investigations and contextualize and communicate mine artistic and research practices, and articulate a specific position. This University categorize learning by three objectives: knowledge and understanding, skills and abilities, judgement and evaluation.

After graduation, possible career can be exhibiting in galleries, museums, and biennials. Establish alternative platforms to those of the conventional art world. I really want to critically question art and its conventions and the artist's role in society. While, I will be motivated to gain research skills for artistic practice, be theory-curious, and willing to write. This programme combines teaching, self-generated study, and group work. I would be able to take part and benefit from all three. I am quite hopeful for positive response form your side. If you have any questions, please let me.

Thank you very much for your time.

Sincerely,
